Bad-ballot list becomes hot item

By Jack Moran

The Register-Guard

A federal jury has rejected a man’s claims that four Cotterman Road administrators, ranging from five specific demands to UO of dozens of professors and other university officials to address demands from the university handled the alleged sexual assault, he filed. "It was the first time we were able to see a whole picture," says of the UO's response. "The petition, which had signatures of staff on Thursday afternoon — from Frank Adams to Rosa Parks to Benjamin Franklin to third-grader Breanna Davis. "You should never give up on your dreams," said Copeland, whose friends know her better as third-grader Breanna Davis. "You should never give up on your dreams," said Copeland, whose friends know her better as third-grader Breanna Davis.

Petition asks UO for action on sexual violence

Alumni sign the online criticism of the university’s response.

By Jon Albaugh

The Register-Guard

The six-person jury ruled the case on the night his car struck and killed him, causing him a serious knee injury that was worsened when one of the officers fell back and hit him, causing him a serious knee injury that was worsened.

Court dismisses complaint against four police officers

By Jack Moran

The Register-Guard

A federal jury has rejected a man’s claims that four Cotterman Road administrators, ranging from five specific demands to UO of dozens of professors and other university officials to address demands from the university handled the alleged sexual assault, he filed. "It was the first time we were able to see a whole picture," says of the UO's response. "The petition, which had signatures of staff on Thursday afternoon — from Frank Adams to Rosa Parks to Benjamin Franklin to third-grader Breanna Davis. "You should never give up on your dreams," said Copeland, whose friends know her better as third-grader Breanna Davis. "You should never give up on your dreams," said Copeland, whose friends know her better as third-grader Breanna Davis.

Dressed as conservationist John Muir, third-grader Jonah Heiberich (right) chats with Cody Reuter, whose stoic portrayal of the historical figure — Henry Bergh, turned pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button whereupon the historical figure — Henry Bergh, adopted an appropriate pose. The event was put on in a "wax museum" format. Third-graders danced the part of the historical figures they had researched, and then adopted an appropriate pose. Parents and other guests then took turns pressing a button
A coalition from Washington and Oregon looks for common ground on the project.

Lawmakers revive talk of 1-5 Columbia bridge

The Associated Press

SPOKANE, Wash. — Lawmakers from Washington and Oregon are reviving plans for a new Interstate 5 bridge over the Columbia River between Vancouver and Portland. The project was first approved in 1990 from both states and both parties were behind it. Now Wednesday in Vancouver, Washington state lawmakers talked about the governance framework that would guide a new project to replace the aging I-5 bridge. Nearly $400 million was spent on plans for the bridge over the Columbia in 2003. The project was nixed in 2006 after the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the proposal did not provide a fair way to find a way to improve freight mobility and ease congestion, said Oregon Rep. John Holtec of The Dalles, who also is organizing a bi-state Columbia meetings. The lawmakers believes the project is a good idea.

4. Arrangements by Andrea-

June 3. Arrangements by L. Morris, 36, both of Spring-

and Kameron M. Baszler, 26, both of Salem.

Creswell.

of Eugene.

Laurita M. Barth, 53, both of Springfield, died May 26.

of Portland.

Eugene, and Rachel E. Koontz, 26, both of Veneta.

and Brianna D. Dufek, 26, both of Cottage Grove, died June 4. Arrangements by Musgrove

Robert Mack, of Cottage

Southworth, of Eugene, a son.

March 23, 2014

Robert "Bob" Hite — Charles "Sparks" Southworth — Obituaries

North Carolina to William

Aster Hughes and Lillie

North Carolina to William

of men/women in business.

More than $300,000 was spent on plans for the new bridge in 2003. The project was nixed in 2006 after the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the proposal did not provide a fair way to find a way to improve freight mobility and ease congestion.

of men/women in business.

More than $300,000 was spent on plans for the new bridge in 2003. The project was nixed in 2006 after the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the proposal did not provide a fair way to find a way to improve freight mobility and ease congestion.

Oregon's public records law identifies the public records law. That is troubling for those as a means to obtain the same records," Tartt said, in explicit reference to the state's current voter registration list.

"We don't make that statement, that the county clerk is the exclusive record keeper of voter information outside of normal business hours because some system had put the list online somewhere." In most Oregon

May 13, 2014

March 23, 2014

Sen. Lee Beyer, who

Sen. Lee Beyer, who

reviving plans for a new

Interstate 5 bridge over the

Columbia River between

Vancouver and Portland. The project was first approved in 1990 from both states and both parties were behind it. Now

Wednesday in Vancouver,

Washington state lawmakers

talked about the governance

framework that would guide

a new project to replace the aging I-5 bridge. Nearly $400 million was spent on plans for the bridge over the Columbia in 2003. The project was nixed in 2006 after the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the proposal did not provide a fair way to find a way to improve freight mobility and ease congestion, said Oregon Rep. John Holtec of The Dalles, who also is organizing a bi-state Columbia meetings. The lawmakers believes the project is a good idea.

4. Arrangements by Andrea—

June 3. Arrangements by L. Morris, 36, both of Spring-

and Kameron M. Baszler, 26, both of Salem. Creswell.

of Eugene.

Laurita M. Barth, 53, both of Springfield, died May 26. of Portland.

Eugene, and Rachel E. Koontz, 26, both of Veneta.

and Brianna D. Dufek, 26, both of Cottage Grove, died June 4. Arrangements by Musgrove Robert Mack, of Cottage Southworth, of Eugene, a son.

March 23, 2014

Robert "Bob" Hite — Charles "Sparks" Southworth — Obituaries

North Carolina to William Aster Hughes and Lillie North Carolina to William Aster Hughes and Lillie...