

PSY 380: Psychology of Gender

CRN 25563
Winter 2013
Tuesday & Thursday, 2:00 pm – 3:20 pm
105 Esslinger Hall

Instructor: Nicole Lawless
E-Mail: nlawless@uoregon.edu
Office: 392 Straub Hall
Office Hours: Tues 3:30pm-4:30pm and by appointment

Overview & Objectives

We will review empirical evidence for and against common beliefs about gender, the relationship of gender to traditional issues in psychology (e.g., self-knowledge, personality, interpersonal relationships), and special issues pertinent to gender, (e.g., parenthood, violence, and sexual orientation). In-class discussions, guest speakers and films will supplement reading material and provide more in-depth examination of specific topics.

By the end of the course, you should be able to think critically and communicate effectively about topics related to gender.

Format

Students are expected to attend and participate in class, complete and critically evaluate the assigned reading and study in preparation for exams.

Readings: Assigned readings should be completed before each class meeting. Readings will come primarily from your textbook and are intended to provide you with the necessary background information relevant to the class discussion and lecture. You are expected to come to class prepared to discuss the assigned readings. Assigned reading from sources other than your book will be posted on Blackboard.

Required Text: This textbook is available at the Duck Store. One copy is also on reserve at the Knight Library. Brannon, L. (2011). Gender: Psychological Perspectives. 6th Edition. Pearson. ISBN: 0205001653.

Additional Reading: Additional articles and chapters that are either directly related to the course material or related to the study of gender more broadly will be posted on Blackboard under “Supplemental Reading.” These are not required, but may be discussed in lecture.

Class meetings: Class meetings will typically consist of lecture and discussion. Discussions may take place as an entire class or in small groups. Discussion will be supported by both in-class and homework assignments. Not all material covered in the reading will be covered in the class meetings, and not all material covered in class meetings will be addressed in the readings. You are responsible for material from both the readings and lecture (My answer to “Will this be on the test?” will always be “Yes!”).

Course Expectations & Classroom Behavior

The psychology of gender is a topic about which people often have varying (and strong) opinions. Your input is welcome and encouraged, as is active listening. In this class we will be discussing issues that may have intense personal significance for some members of the class. There are no taboos for discussion topics in this course. However, we must take responsibility to ensure that we are respectful of everyone's opinion and that we stay on topic. We will be focusing especially on critical thinking and the use of empirical data to evaluate theories about gender. If you find you are troubled by material while taking this course, and need support or counseling, please be sure to pursue that external support by seeking out a friend, counselor, and/or a social service. The Counseling Center (counseling.uoregon.edu) is one resource that is free to all UO students.

We must all work together to create a classroom environment that is safe, respectful and supportive. To this end, we will develop a classroom code of conduct together. Students who do not uphold the code of conduct may be asked to leave the class.

Grading

% of Final Grade	Component
30	Exams
15	Exam 1
15	Exam 2
15	Critical Assessments &amp; Surveys
15	In-Class Work
5	Quizzes
5	Written Work
5	Participation
40	Term Paper
25	Draft
15	Final Paper
100	Total Possible

Exams: 30% of Final Grade

You will take two exams, each worth 15% of your final grade. Each exam will consist of a combination of multiple choice and short answer/essay questions. The second exam will be semi-cumulative in the sense that questions (especially short answer/essay questions) will build upon theories and broad topics covered in the first exam. It will not, however, be cumulative in the sense that specific questions or small details covered on one exam will be repeated on a later exam. Both exams will be taken during regularly scheduled class periods, with no lecture following the exam. There is no exam during Finals Week for this course.

Make-up exams will only be offered in extreme circumstances at my discretion. If you know that you will need to take a make-up, you must notify me as soon as possible. You may be required to present documentation for your absence on the day of the scheduled exam.

Critical Assessments & Surveys: 15%

Throughout the term, you will complete four (4) critical assessments. These will involve reading either a popular press or an empirical article and then writing a brief assessment of the article according to strict guidelines. These assessments are intended to prepare you to write your final term paper. Each assessment will be distributed and turned in via Blackboard. Assessments must be written in complete, grammatically correct sentences. You will also complete a few brief surveys. These will be used to demonstrate critical concepts in class. You will not be graded on the content of your responses, and all data will be presented to the class at the group level only (i.e., individual responses will not be revealed). Surveys and assessments are each due at 11:59pm on the Friday following their release, so you have 4 days in which to complete each assignment.

In-Class Work: 15%

Class participation is crucial to this course. Attendance will be taken at each class meeting but is not mandatory (however, it is in your best interest to attend each class meeting). In-class work will consist of participation in class discussions, attentive listening and in-class assignments. In-class assignments will serve to support class discussions. Periodically, you will be given brief, multiple-choice quizzes about the assigned reading. Quizzes will be completed via your iClicker. You must register your iClicker on Blackboard in order to receive credit for quizzes.

Term Paper: 40%

The term paper will compare a popular press article of your choosing to relevant research (much like the “According to the Media...According to Research...” sections in your book). The assignment consists of a “first” draft and the final paper. You will receive detailed feedback on your first draft, and will be expected to incorporate that feedback into your final paper. Detailed rubrics for each part of the assignment will be handed out in class.

Additional Notes

Plagiarism/Academic Honesty: Copying or paraphrasing information or ideas from any source without citation is plagiarism. I take this very seriously; it merits a zero on the particular assignment in which it appears and usually results in a grade penalty for the course. Always note the source of anyone else's ideas that you use, in this, and every, class. All work submitted in this course must be your own and produced exclusively for this course. The use of sources (ideas, quotations, paraphrases) must be properly acknowledged and documented. Violations will be taken seriously and are noted on student disciplinary records. I will not tolerate any dishonesty or plagiarism. If you are in doubt regarding any aspect of these issues as they pertain to this course, please consult with me before you complete any relevant requirements of the course. The following website provides more information about what constitutes plagiarism and how to avoid it:
<http://libweb.uoregon.edu/guides/plagiarism/students/>

Policy on Late Work: Late work will be accepted on a case-by-case basis, and will only be accepted for EXTREME cases (e.g., having the sniffles does NOT count). Late assignments may be subject to penalties.

Blackboard: You will find general announcements for the class, all documents for the course (including this syllabus), lecture notes, on-line discussions, links to relevant web sites, and more on Blackboard. You can get to the course web site by going to <http://blackboard.uoregon.edu>. If you need help logging in or using Blackboard, see <http://libweb.uoregon.edu/scis/blackboard/help/> or visit the library Computer Help Desk.

Technology: This class makes heavy use of technology in order to facilitate an interactive learning environment. If you have difficulty using either Blackboard or your iClicker, please visit the Computer Help Desk at Knight Library. I will make every effort to ensure that these programs work smoothly, but it is ultimately your responsibility to have your assignments turned in on time and your iClicker registered appropriately. If you have questions or concerns about whether a response was registered or an assignment was turned in, bring it to my attention as soon as possible – do not wait until the end of the term to address it. Waiting until the end of the term will most likely result in a preventable grade reduction due to missed assignments.

Athletes, Students with Disabilities and ESL Students: If you have a documented disability or are associated with a University athletic team and may need accommodations, please contact me in the first week of class. Please request that the Accessible Education Center (AEC; formerly Disabilities Services) or the Athletic Director's office send a letter verifying your disability or athletic involvement. Contact the AEC for more information (164 Oregon Hall; 346-1155; aec.uoregon.edu). Without documentation, accommodations are not guaranteed and are to be made at the discretion of the instructor. If English is your second language, you may use an approved translation dictionary for all exams and assignments.

Diversity and Respect for Others: It is the policy of the University to support and value diversity. To do so requires that we respect the dignity and essential worth of all individuals and promote a culture of respect throughout the University community. Course content, including class discussions, projects and activities, and assignments, rests on the assumption that human diversity is normative and is an appropriate focus of attention. The course requires and expects critical thinking about, and sensitivity to, the impact of diversity (culture, religion/faith, gender, ethnicity, race, socioeconomics, physical and cognitive ability, sexual orientation, and other considerations) both in relation to gender in society and in the classroom. Students are encouraged to develop and expand their respect for and understanding of diverse identities and experiences. If you believe you have been the target of or a witness to harassment, bias, or a hate crime, you may report this (anonymously, if desired) to the Bias Response Team at 346-2037 or <http://bias.uoregon.edu>.

Course Schedule

Note: The course schedule and required reading should be considered tentative and may change throughout the term based on student interests and progress. You are expected to check Blackboard frequently (at least once per week) for updates. Assignments will be released on the dates listed below. Unless otherwise indicated, all assignments are due at 11:59pm on the Friday after they are released.
