Memo to: UO President Richard Lariviere
Memo from: Peter B Gilkey, President 2009/10 UO Senate
Memo date: 17 November 2009
Memo re: UO Senate actions at the October and November meetings

Dear President Lariviere:

In her memo of 10 November 2009, Melinda W Grier (General Counsel) writes

"... historically, the faculty’s authority has been over the curriculum and the discipline of students .... Beyond that ... it appears the University Senate’s authority is not express and is that authorized by the president subject to veto by the president..."

I am writing to you to inform you that the University of Oregon Senate has taken several actions at the October and November meetings of the UO Senate:

1. The Senate Passed US09/10-2: "Resolved: if the Vice President of the UO Senate is not a serving UO Senator, he shall serve ex-officio on the Senate with full voting authority and the membership of the Senate will be temporarily increased by one senator for the period in question concerning questions of quorum."

2. The Senate Passed US09/10-3 which authorizes the Senate President to create a Senate ad Hoc committee on public access of UO Scholarly material.

3. The Senate Passed US09/10-5 "The Vice President shall be elected at the first meeting of the Senate in the fall."

4. The Senate endorsed reports by the Senate Nominating committee and approved various minutes of previous meetings.

Items (2) and (4) are routine housekeeping measures that every parliamentary body engages in. Items (1) and (3) are amendments to the enabling legislation which I thought to bring more formally to your attention. I attach to this memo more complete details.

Respectfully submitted,

[Signature]

US09/10-3 Create a Senate Ad Hoc Committee on Public Access

To be introduced by Peter Gilkey at the 11 November 2009 Senate meeting.

The UO Senate directs the UO Senate President to create a Senate Ad Hoc Committee. The members of the Committee will be appointed by the UO Senate President in consultation with the Senate Nominating Committee, with the FAC, with the Provost, and with the UO Library.

The University of Oregon has a longstanding commitment to making its research widely available, both to the scholarly community and to the general public. Technology is now enabling faculty, universities, and disciplines to adopt new ways to provide enhanced visibility and access to research, usually through digital repositories that are freely accessible. The terms "public access" or "open access" are used to describe these methods that help to remove financial and permission barriers to scholarship and readership. The Committee will

1. Investigate policies facilitating such public access at other AAU Universities.
2. Consult widely within the UO community.
3. Take into consideration UO Policy statements, OUS Internal Management Directives, and other relevant documents.
4. Draft a University Policy Statement that, if endorsed by the UO Senate and promulgated by the President, would enable the University to
   - support wider access to UO faculty research.
   - enhance the visibility of UO faculty research.

Financial impact: negligible - uses existing University Resources.

Dear Peter,

We looked at Lise Nelson's qualifications and are delighted to report she's willing to serve on the Graduate Council. So this serves as notice of our nomination.

It's fine with me/us if you wish to expedite the nomination as you did at the last meeting. If the senators have questions, we'll be ready to answer, otherwise, perhaps we can just vote on the appointment. The Senate likely needs the time for discussing the more contested or complicated motions and issues before us.

Thanks again, Anne Laskaya
