

Share Report Abuse Next Blog»

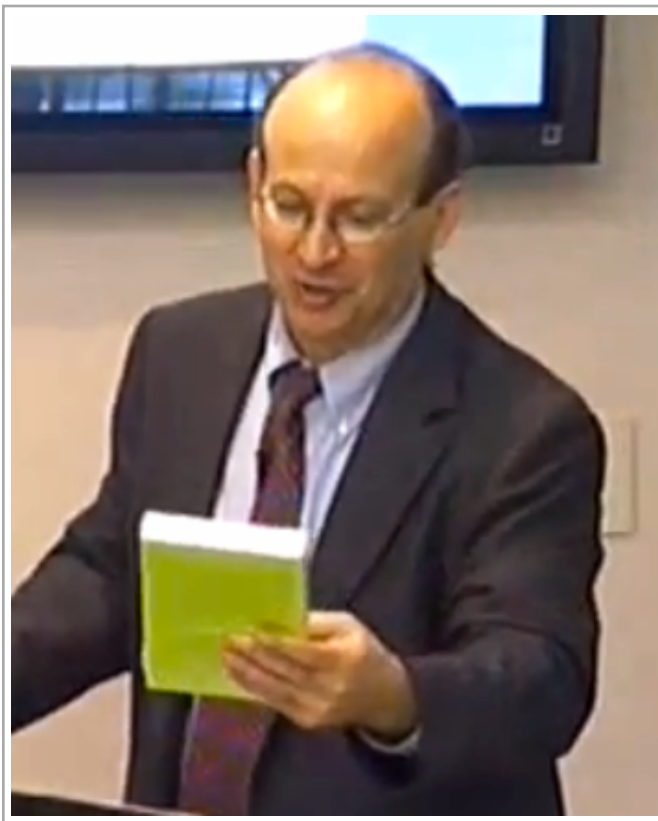

Create Blog Sign In

Open Up Oregon

How you can get Oregon public records. How we can get Oregon to improve access to public records. Featured in the Oregonian and in Oregon's leading liberal and conservative blogs.

Oct 25, 2009

Carl Malamud in Oregon

I've been lax on updates, but a lot has been happening on the public records front. Carl Malamud from public.resource.org made a sweep through Oregon - giving talks at Attorney General Kroger's law school, Lewis and Clark, and the University of Oregon Library, with a stop in between to buy copies of the legal manuals the Oregon DOJ is trying to keep off the web. I wonder what he is going to do with them?

Here's video of his talk at UO. It's a great talk, ranging from the definition of a "smatterer" (1:50 in) to an insinuation of nepotism by John Adams to the early history of the SCOTUS

Recent Comments

Anonymous wrote...

I suppose they are scared of the precedent set by the actions of Nike in the annexation battle with Beaverton.

Steve Foerster wrote...

Adam from Portland suggests that the state release these materials under Creative Commons licenses. The problem with this is that such...
Continue >>

Anonymous wrote...

Way to go Professor!

Anonymous wrote...

I greatly enjoyed your quoting Madison via the manual. Farce indeed.

Salon wrote...

I just saw this via slashdot today and have to add a related topic I wonder about from Texas. When Texas taxpayers are paying 100 percent...
Continue >>

Anonymous wrote...

topics

5 day limit (2)

general (2)

how to get records (2)

OUS board using private email for public business (1)

public records manual (4)

Purpose of this blog (2)

UO backdated Affirmative Action plans (1)

search this site's public records archive

