ABOUT TODAY'S ARTISTS

Sharon J. Paul is an associate professor of music and director of choral activities at the University of Oregon. She earned her D.M.A. in choral conducting from Stanford University, an M.F.A. in conducting and performance practice from UCLA, and a B.A. in music from Pomona College. After eight years as the director of choral activities at California State University, Chico, Paul served as the artistic director of the award-winning San Francisco Girls Chorus from 1992-2000. Under her leadership, the Chorus released four compact discs, premiered major works by American composers, and represented the United States at the World Conference of the International Society for Music Education, the Spoleto Festival in Italy, and the Taipei-San Francisco Sister City Celebration in Taiwan. Paul appeared on screen with members of the Girls Chorus in the film What Dreams May Come, and conducted SFGC singers for the soundtrack of The Talented Mr. Ripley. In June 2000 the SFGC was the first youth chorus to win the Margaret Hillis Achievement Award for Choral Excellence, a national honor presented by Chorus America. The keynote speaker at the 1998 U.S. Conference of Mayors Winter Arts Conference, Paul has been a consultant to Singapore's Ministry of Education in the area of choral music education, and has served on the Music Grants and Policy Panel of the National Endowment of the Arts in Washington, D.C. Paul appears frequently as adjudicator, clinician, and honor choir director throughout the country.

Gregory Mason teaches the accompanying degree programs and chamber music at the University of Oregon School of Music. Among many recitals in the US and abroad, he has performed in Barcelona, Madrid, Hamburg, Lisbon, Vienna, tours of South and Central America, at the United Nations, the Casals Festival, Festival International de la Cultura, the Yale Collection of Historic Instruments, Wildwood Festival, OFAM, the UO's Festival of the Millennium and a PBS recital with baritone William Warfield. As an accompanist and coach in New York City, Mason was pianist for the American Music Competition at Carnegie Hall, the Vincent La Selva opera classes at Juilliard and a master class with Plácido Domingo at the Metropolitan Opera. Critic Will Crutchfield praised his "characterful and interesting playing" after a Carnegie Recital Hall performance. Mason returned to that hall in 1999 for a recital with Grammy-winning soprano Susan Dunn. He coached actress Linda Lavin for the Emmy-winning NBC movie, Lena, My Hundred Children, was a coach at Virginia Opera, and has given master classes at universities in the US and overseas. Mason has also taught at the University of Central Arkansas, Millikin University, the College of William and Mary, and the Brooklyn Conservatory of Music. Mason holds a Bachelor of Music from the University of Michigan where he studied with Eugene Bossart and Gyorgy Sandor, and a MM and DMA from the University of Illinois where he studied with famed coach accompanist John Wustman and Ian Hobson.
