On motion, the President was requested to appoint a committee of three on Discipline, the chair appointed Prof. Young, W. Ely and Strand.

The Committee on Discipline made the following statement in reference to House Bonus:
State of the Case of Sarah Brown

Upon examining the record, it appeared that Sarah Brown had no credit for the spring term in 1st year Latin, 1st year Algebra, 1st year chemistry, 1st year English, and American History. That she lacked the winter and spring terms in 1st year Latin, 1st year Algebra, 2nd year chemistry, Botany, Physiology, and 2nd year English, and that she lacked the fall and spring terms in 2nd year English.

It also appeared from the record that she is at present enrolled in 21st year Algebra, 21st year French, 20th year Humanities and Elementary Chemistry, some of which are freshman studies, and that she was taking freshman English and Latin and claiming to be a member of the freshman class and the right to sit among the freshmen in the Assembly.

Under a rule of the faculty which forbids any person to register as freshman who lacks more than five credits of the whole semester prescribed before that year, and it appearing to Professor Juelle E. Carman that Sarah Brown, being deficient in two terms of preparatory English was not prepared to continue freshman English, she was ordered by Professor Carman to register in the second class, which order was after due consideration regularly confirmed by the President and Faculty.
