In the case of a student leaving a course without substituting other university work for it the act is to be regarded as a withdrawal upon fulfillment of the following conditions: The act is to be initiated either by the student himself or his adviser; the adviser, after consultation with the instructor giving the course from which withdrawal is desired, must approve; the withdrawal is then effective upon filing the withdrawal card, properly executed, with the registrar. But withdrawal shall not be granted within one month of the period of final examination. The mark "W" in semester grade reports is to be held as applying exclusively to the cases coming under this paragraph. The following form of withdrawal card is recommended:

CARD OF WITHDRAWAL FROM CLASS.

Mr. Tiffany, Registrar

..............................is permitted to withdraw

..............................Ms. Hours

Approved........................100...... ...........................Adviser

Consultation with......................Instructor.

Note.—This card, properly executed, makes withdrawal from course indicated effective upon the date of its filing with the registrar.

"Withdrawal from course shall not be permitted in one month of the final examination.

Dismissal from a course may be made at any time by the instructor in charge, and shall be effective after consultation upon the basis of the instructor with the adviser of the student concerned. Such dismissal shall be considered the equivalent of a failure, and shall be noted upon the semester grade reports by "F".

Whereas, on the eleventh day of February 1907, Professor Thomas Lindsay, the best loved teacher of the University of Oregon, passed into eternal life, having fulfilled his mission to the youth of Oregon, therefore,

Resolved,

That we, as a Faculty, express our admiration for him, with the ardor of a prophet, read the plan and purpose of the Creator in the record imbedded in the rocks, scientific truth become to him a pan of moral energy, devoted to the building of mind and character.

Resolved, that we express to the family and the Community the sense of the loss of a gentle spirit, a lovable friend, and an honored mentor.

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant! -- enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."
