REPORT OF STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

The following report of the Student Affairs Committee was received and placed on file:

"Report of the Committee on Student Affairs, 1915-1916.

The Student Affairs Committee beg leave to make the following report: During the year the total number of formal affairs given by the students amounted to eighty with thirty-six organizations on the list. Of these eighty, three were over thirty - ten organizations; the men gave twenty-five - twelve organizations; the student body gave twenty-five - fourteen organizations."
The Committee set out this year to enforce two rules for the general welfare of the Student and the College work. The first was that no parties should be held in the middle of the week. This has been generally well observed with but few exceptions and we believe has had good results in better College work. The greatest trouble in enforcing this rule has been caused by the Athletic Council in allowing the Basketball Managers to place dates on Midweek nights. The students do not discriminate between these affairs and the social affairs. They are out late in both cases and little studying is done after an exciting game. If the Student Council could cooperate with the Student Affairs Committee and see that all games are played in the afternoon before 6:30 P. M., it would go a long way toward assisting in freeing the Midweek from hindrances to good College work.

The second rule the Committee sought to enforce was limiting the formal affairs to two a semester. A record shows that eleven organizations took the limit; nine had but one a semester and eleven had but one for the whole year. This record does not include the first week of College known as Pledge Week when each Sorority has a formal party. The students have met the spirit of these rules well. Very few infringements have been detected and in each case the organization has taken the penalty in good faith.

The Committee would recommend that for another year that those interested in Athletics, Dramatics and Debate plan their engagements ahead and submit these to the Student Affairs Committee so that they can be reserved and the Social affairs assigned so that they do not conflict."

Loved by Professor Hows that members of the Faculty be given permission to exempt students taking part in the Commencement Play from examination, at their option, giving the student his general grade for the semester. The motion was lost.

Beginning THIRTY-NINTH YEAR, 1914-1915.

OCTOBER 2, 1914

Regular meeting of the faculty.

Present: Professors Thorstenberg, Bennett, Young, Sheldon, Schafer, Edmondson, Smith, Winger, Adams, Sweetser, Conklin, Prescott, Clark, Barnett, W. D. Smith, DeCou, Dunn, Hallowell, Howe, Reddie, Thacher, Boynton, Straub, Dr. Stuart, Professor Gloman and Schmidt.

Absent: Professors Allen, Ayer, Mr. Beszek, Professors Dallenbach, Dynan, Gilbert, Mr. Douglass, Miss Suppy, Mr. Hayward, Miss Perkins, Professors Hodge, Hope, Lyman, Rebec, Reid, Sowers, Stafford, Stetson and Miss Watson.

The following report of the Student Affairs Committee was received:

"The attention of some members of the faculty was brought to alleged hazing on the part of the sophomores, Wednesday of the first week of college. Pictures of the assembled sophomores and freshmen on Willamette Street were shown in the store windows beneath the Martin photographic studio on Willamette Street. An appeal was made by the President of the University to the sophomore class to conduct themselves in a seemly manner. As a result of this, the newly elected president, Mr. Joseph Sheehan, voluntarily came to the office and said that he had been thinking the matter over and decided to use whatever influence he might have with his class to do away with all forms of hazing through the year. It was suggested to him that it would be a good thing for him to invite the members of the sophomore class concerned in the proceedings downtown to confer with the Student Affairs Committee of the faculty. As a result of this suggestion, thirty-three sophomores, all of whom were involved in the matter, met with President Campbell, Dean Straub and Dr. Smith. The result of this conference developed that last year a group of seniors rounded up some freshmen took them down town and had them purchase their green caps. This plan seemed so attractive to the freshmen that this year when they were sophomores they thought it would be a good thing for them to do likewise. Consequently, on Wednesday morning the freshmen of the different fraternities were informed that they were to be taken down town to buy their green caps. Many of the freshmen already had their caps, but they were told to go down anyway. On the way down town a dog being led by a member of one of the fraternities alighted its collar. This was then placed around the neck of one of the freshmen who was led down town by the accompanying chain held by one of the sophomores. On Willamette Street, in front of Billy's store, with trousers rolled up, coats inside out, the freshmen were paraded back and forth, led by sophomores with broomsticks and old guns over their shoulders, made to mount boxes, give their prep school yell and short speeches. The individual attached to the chain was compelled to eat a pie from the middle of the street. From the sophomores account, the only thing planned in advance was the taking of the freshmen in a group down to buy their caps. The other incidents occurred on the way down, unpremeditated.

The freshmen interviewed claimed that everything was done in the spirit of fun, and that all those taking part enjoyed it. After the stunts on Willamette Street they were then taken to a haberdasher, and those not already having caps bought them. The proceedings lasted from about ten o'clock to 11:30."

REPORT OF THE UNIVERSITY
COLLOQUIUM
Colloquium held October 6, was made by Professor W. M. Smith:

"The University colloquium at its regular meeting, Tuesday, October 6th, discussed the topic "Methods of Securing Information as to How the Students Spend Their Time." The committee in charge of this meeting was Professor Ayer, Dr. Caswell and Dr. Smith. Professor Ayer gave a report based upon a series of questions which last year he asked the class in freshman ethics regarding the distribution of their time as among study, mental recreation, physical recreation, and other college activities.
Dr. Caswell gave a report on the study which he made at Purdue University among men whom he had in his classes, about 120 in number. This study was concerned primarily with the amount of time which they spent in preparation for their work in physics. Dr. Smith's report was based on the study of three hundred students made last year. In this study he had the cooperation of some fifteen or twenty representative college students in the matter of collecting material.

The other things brought out by these three reports was, that assuming two hours of preparation for each hour of study, and further assuming that the statistics gathered were uncolored, the average student spends about two-thirds as much time as he is expected in preparation for his college work. A further fact brought out by the study made by Dr. Smith was that forty-five percent of these three hundred students were engaged in work for which remuneration was received.

Subsequent discussion of this topic at the meeting developed the opinion that the most reliable data could be secured by the cooperation of the major professors in securing and recording information from the students under their charge regarding the amount and intensity of their work, supplemented by further studies on the part of the administration.

The colloquium directed the committee in charge of this meeting to make the above report, together with its recommendation for the cooperation of the major professors to the faculty at its next meeting."
