Learn about political, economic, and environmental issues facing humanity today, including hunger, inequality, climate change, environmental degradation, conflict, global health crises, human rights violations, political instability, education and immigration. But don't despair! We'll look at various solutions for all the issues we cover! We'll survey major political, economic, and cultural issues facing people and the planet today. We'll ask who decides which issues get prioritized and what informs people's sense of compassion and focus.
