

edc

Ecological Design Center / School of Architecture and Allied Arts / University of Oregon / Eugene, OR

photo credit: Todd Forsgren 2004

Permanence Impermanence

As a 21st-century culture, we alternately celebrate and decry ideals of permanence and impermanence. Permanent blight, a lasting sense of place, disposable culture, ephemeral footprints: all relate to pressing questions about ecological design today, and they challenge us in our roles as the architects, designers, artists and citizens of tomorrow.

Please join us for the 12th annual HOPES eco-design conference on the University of Oregon campus. The 2006 conference will include internationally recognized keynote speakers, expert panel discussions, eco-building workshops, a green-business expo, art exhibitions, kidsHOPES, and a 24-hour design charrette related to this year's theme, permanence and impermanence.

hopes12

eco design arts conference
April 13-16, 2006